Restriction/Election Requirement

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

- I. Claims 1-35 and 46-48, drawn to a method, computer product, and system for use in the analysis of gene or protein expression information, classified in class 702, subclass 20.
- II. Claims 36-43, drawn to a method for identifying a gene or protein, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
- III. Claims 44 and 45, drawn to a method for identifying a gene or protein expression pattern that is useful for discriminating between samples of two or more cellular states, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
- IV. Claims 49-53, drawn to a method for use in modifying the production of a metabolite in a cell, classified in class 435, subclass 34.
- V. Claims 54-58, drawn to a method for use in modifying the production of a polyhydroxyalkanoate in a cell, classified in class 435, subclass 69.1.
- VI. Claims 59 and 60, drawn to a bacterium, classified in class 435, subclass 7.2.
- VII. Claims 61 and 62, drawn to a method of producing a polyhydroxyalkanoate, classified in class 530, subclass 333.
- VIII. Claims 63-68, drawn to a method for determining whether a sample contains a hyperproliferative cell, classified in class 436, subclass 64.
- IX. Claims 69-72, drawn to drawn to a method for classifying a leukemia sample, classified in class 702, subclass 19.

Art Unit: 1631

- X. Claim 73, drawn to a method for identifying a candidate therapeutic agent for the treatment of a hyperproliferative disorder, classified in class 702, subclass 19.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I-X are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (M.P.E.P. § 806.04, M.P.E.P. § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are directed to methods having different functions, different effects, and different modes of operation.

The function(s)/mode of operation of Group I is for the analysis of gene or protein expression. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group II is to identify a gene or protein. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group III is for the identification of a gene or protein expression pattern. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group IV is to modify the production of a metabolite in a cell. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group V is to modify the production of polyhydroxyalkanoate in a cell. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group VI is a bacterium. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group VII is to produce polyhydroxyalkanoate. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group VIII is to detect a hyperproliferative cell. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group IX is to classify a leukemia sample. The function(s)/mode of operation of Group X is to identify a candidate therapeutic agent for the treatment of a hyperproliferative disorder. Thus, Groups I-X have different functions, different effects, and different modes of operation.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, and the search for each Group would require a non-coextensive non-patent literature search (the search required for one group is not required for any of the other groups), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicants are advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 C.F.R. § 1.143).

GENE ELECTION REQUIREMENT APPLICABLE TO GROUPS V, VI, VIII, IX, AND X

In addition, Groups V, VI, VIII, IX, and X read on patentably distinct genes. Each gene is patentably distinct because they are unrelated genes, and a further restriction is applied to each Group. It is noted that this is a restriction requirement to a single gene and NOT a specie election requirement.

INVENTORSHIP AMENDMENT

Applicants are reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 C.F.R. § 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 C.F.R. § 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 C.F.R. § 1.17(i).
